

be a number, and have become all numbers. He must have forgotten the illusion of separation, and accept only the truth of collective individuality.”

The drop must re-become the ocean and live by it, in it, and for it.

